Under Federal law, you must provide parental information on your FAFSA application and only your Financial Aid Office has the authority to decide whether or not you must provide their information on your FAFSA application. NOTE: You will only be eligible for Direct Unsubsidized Stafford loans if parental information isn’t provided on your 2018-2019 FAFSA Application and the FAFSA Special Circumstance Application is approved by the Student Financial Services office.

After careful review, the Student Financial Services Office will decide if you must provide parental information or if your circumstances allow you to proceed without providing parental data.
